COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The Assessors will be in the Town Office Saturday, April 1, from 9:00 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. for the purpose of receiving lists of all taxable property.

The mild weather and rain has brought the prospect of starting spring road work closer. Also an annual clean-up is in order, not only from the point of view of street sweeping, hauling away the remains of trees cut in conjunction with the program to control Dutch Elm Disease, but also several old and discarded automobiles are appearing.

The State law is very clear in regard to junked cars and if the Municipal Officers do not take action to have them removed the State will. As in the past there will be a program followed to eliminate unsightly objects from the view of the public.

COMMENT

Misunderstood ??

Nationwide, authorities are disturbed over a general breakdown of observance of the law. The situation is not especially new as in previous generations the condition was present in varying degrees. Over forty years ago Calvin Coolidge said that he wished people would worry as much over observing the law as they did about its enforcement.

Many of those taken to court today believe that the only thing they did wrong was to get caught. In fact, even the youngest of the offenders know what they are doing is illegal, and they or their elders would be among the first to accuse law officers of dereliction of duty if such cases were overlooked.

In this age of questionable tax returns, falsified expense records, and squeezing that extra mile per hour over the speed limit, a better example for the younger generation might be given.

The attitude of this is the first time he was ever picked up for speeding and the expectation of leniency by the judge does little to make offenders better citizens in the future. If a fatality occurs on the highway to an accident where speed is a factor, the person's life is snuffed out, whether the driver is a first offender or not.

A small percentage of the youths may be giving the whole age group a bad reputation. The actions of a few who fail to accept responsibility for their own actions in regard to others' rights are the cause of restrictive laws. The laws govern the actions of all, and necessarily inhibit the actions of everyone in many areas.

Those who violate the law regarding the consumption of alcoholic beverages and operation of motor vehicles, those minors who have liquor in their possession, know that it is illegal, and that if they are on public property are subject to arrest. They know it fully as well as the law enforcement agencies, and frequently explore every avenue to escape the penalties, usually to the great depletion of their own or their parents' pocketbook.

Many of the alleged violators will no doubt claim they aren't doing anything wrong and that nobody understands them. While many may suffer from being misunderstood, the possibility exists that they would suffer much more in the event that they were understood.

Sen. Muskie Reports

The intergovernmental relations proposal to the President's second message on the Quality of American Government are a challenging set of recommendations.

Two of the major points made by the President deserve our attention.

1. Strengthening public administration. The proposal of the State and local levels where public service employment is growing at the same time the rate of the economy as a whole and where the public service of our society must be served.

2. The improvement and consolidation of the Federal government. The proposal which also too many recommendations are made to the Federal government to be carried out in the future.

The President's proposal to the President's second message on the Quality of American Government are a challenging set of recommendations.

Federal grants-to-aid. It is significant that the President has charged the Bureau of the Budget with the task of developing a two-stage program to streamline and modernize the grant-in-aid system.

The Intergovernmental Cooperation Act of 1967, which I introduced on January 20, contains a provision for consolidation of Federal grants-to-aid, and would accomplish the same purposes as the President's proposals.

My bill would allow the President to submit grant consolidation plans to the same manner as reorganization plans, to take effect in the absence of a disapproving resolution by either House.

We shall give the President the proposals the most serious consideration. We will want to ask whether they go far enough, whether they should be coupled with other provisions of the Intergovernmental Cooperation Act to which the Senate already has given strong support.

In the first stage of the President's proposal, Federal agencies would combine related grants to a single financial package, reducing red tape without disturbing the separate administration, administrative arrangements, and responsibilities. The Bureau of the Budget will develop this plan within 90 days.

The second stage will be to combine grants-in-aid as consolidation, and to make arrangements to all areas where the President's Bureau of the Budget will develop the various programs to see where this can be done.

With change is charged with a responsibility for the future of the country. Our response to his bill should be prompt and thoughtful consideration of the proposals and to the future of our own government.

The second legislative action of the past few years may fall unless we can develop a thoughtful response to his proposals to which they were intended.

Please Pass the Potatoes

This is Maine Potato Month when those connected with this great industry call attention to the many virtues of their product.

It may seem that this promotional drive is of economic importance only to those directly associated with potato-growing and marketing, but that is not the case. Potato money, if we may call it that, is an important part of our economy. If taken away, all of us would suffer to some extent. In view of that, we will be wise if we join the industry in calling attention to the Maine potato not only this month but every month of the year.

Most of us don't eat enough potatoes, and it is a crying shame because there are only a few other foods that are more healthful

LEGION AUXILIARY TO PRESENT ANNUAL GOOD CITIZENSHIP AWARD

The Mundt-Allen Unit No. 81 will give their annual citizenship award for the best qualified in the eighth grades.

There will be three this year (owing to the fact that Newry students are now transported to Crescent Park): one each to Bethel, East Stoneham and Waterville. This award is an emblem and will be presented at graduation exercises.

The student must be of good character, leadership, appearance and a good passing mark. It will be left to the eighth grade teachers to choose the qualified students.

more nutritious, and more economical. Potatoes, with milk, make an almost perfect diet.

In the immediate past there were those who avoided potatoes because they thought they were unduly fattening, but so much evidence to the contrary has come to light that those who still cling to that phantasy must have something wrong with their heads. The person who will avoid a helping of potatoes and wind up the meal with a dessert containing more calories than 10 big, wonderful spuds is deserving of pity.

To those who don't know, Maine is the nation's leading potato-producing state not only in quantity but also in quality. Most of the potatoes grown elsewhere are produced from Maine seed potatoes, recognized as the world's best.

Maine potatoes are possessed of wonderful versatility. Some are unexcelled for baking, others for

20 SECONDS WITH THE NAZARENE

It is not difficult to get away into retirement, and there live upon your own convictions; nor is it difficult to mix with men and follow their convictions; but to enter into the world, and there live firmly according to your own conscience, that is Christian greatness.

The special offering taken at Mt. Abram Ski area on Easter Sunday will be for the purchase of a new food processing plant in a community which will hire several hundred people, both men and women.

Today an ever-growing percentage of the potato crop is being processed so that the busy housewife may get meals in a hurry. What is not generally realized is that these food factories employ an amazing number of people. A new food processing plant in a community will hire several hundred people, both men and women.

Now that Maine Potato Month is here it might profit all of us to learn more ways to prepare our delicious Maine potatoes. Most of us settle for just one or two methods when there are scores to choose from. Let's eat our way to better health by consuming more and more of those good Maine potatoes.

AMENDED REGULATION IN M. E. S. LAW NOW EFFECTIVE

A recent amendment to a regulation governing the administration of the Maine Employment Security Law requires all employers subject to the law to file a quarterly wage report for each employee. The first such report must be filed with the Commission not later than April 30 of this year, covering the quarter ending March 31.

Quarterly wage reporting by employers will enable the Commission to process unemployment benefit claims much faster, according to Chairman Roy U. Sinclair.

In an informational letter to all subject employers this week, Chairman Sinclair explained that the amended regulation requires "total quarterly wages, regardless of the taxation portion, paid to each employee in nonexempt employment, be reported."

Sinclair said, however, the new regulation permits the employer to report "only the first $5.00 paid during the quarter to any employee whose quarterly earnings exceed this amount."

The quarterly payroll report starting in April will be required for each calendar quarter thereafter from all subject employers.

JOINT AND SEPARATE RETURNS

Many married taxpayers who filed separate federal income tax returns last year might have saved themselves money by filing a joint return. This tax tip for Maine taxpayers comes from Whitney L. Wheeler, District Director of Internal Revenue.

The so-called eight-income provision of the tax law usually enables a married couple to pay a lower tax on their combined income when they file jointly than they would have to pay if each filed a separate return, he said. The provision will often save the couple money if only one of them had income.

For couples who do plan to file separate returns, Mr. Wheeler said they must be sure their deductions are handled the same on each of their returns. If one member deducts the other's name from the list.

On separate returns, one must be taken to make sure the expenses that are actually paid by the individual are properly reported. A man filing separately should not claim the deductions that were actually paid for by his wife and vice versa, Mr. Wheeler said. After the wife has income and also separately, she may also pay the husband can claim the personal exemption for the other on their separate returns.

Mr. Wheeler said if a couple does not file separate returns and then a divorce, they must use the same return for the first year after the divorce. A man filing separately should not claim the deductions that were actually paid for by his wife and vice versa, Mr. Wheeler said. After the wife has income and also separately, she may also pay the husband can claim the personal exemption for the other on their separate returns.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO OPEN BIDS ON BUCKFIELD BRIDGES, APRIL 18

Bids will be opened by the State Highway Commission on Monday, April 18, for the construction of two bridges in Buckfield.

The two structures will be awarded under a single contract. Both will be modern, box-culvert type reinforced concrete bridges and will replace the existing outmoded wooden bridges. They are located about 250 feet apart on the Buck Hill Road, west of town, and carry the road over a loop of Basin Falls Brook.

The existing structure, Bennett Bridge, will have a 25-foot span, the westerly structure, Oak Hill Bridge, will have a 20-foot span. The alignment will be improved at both crossings in order to reduce curvature in the approach road. The highway will be reconstructed for a total distance of 600 of a mile. The reconstructed road will have a 20-foot wide shoulders and 4 foot gravel shoulders.

married couple filing separately will mistakenly use the rates for joint returns when computing their tax, he said.

Computers are used to verify and cross-reference information on tax returns. When the computers find the wrong tax table used or that deductions and exemptions have been improperly claimed by married taxpayers filing separately, the correct tax must be determined. This often delays processing and any refund due.

UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST SPRING CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT BANGOR APRIL 1

The Annual Spring Conference of the Unitarian Universalist Churches of Northeast District is to be held April 1 at the First Universalist Church of Bangor. Registration, coffee hour and Orientation period will be held from 9 to 10 a. m.

The theme of the conference this year is "An Adventure in Group Relations." The conference is planned each year by the Department of Adult Programs under the directorship of Rev. Donald M. Hinkley of Auburn. The leadership for the overall theme is headed by Mr. R. Stephen Drane.

Mr. Drane is at the Poland Spring Job Corps Center for Women working as Assistant Director of Personnel and Staff Training. This work entails coordinating and developing programs in special skill areas as well as overall programs to increase the total staff's understanding of the Corpswomen.

Mr. Drane will present the movie "I, The Beholder" at 10 a. m. A discussion and review of the film will follow the showing. Luncheon will be served at 12 noon.

At 1 p. m. Mr. Henry Hampton, director of the Public Relations of the Unitarian Universalist Association will give a lecture on "How To Strengthen Our Churches Through News Media." Mr. Hampton is being sponsored by the Department of Publicity and Publications. He will discuss how to write news, how to publish newsletters, how to use advertising columns of newspapers, and how to utilize radio and television.

Following Mr. Hampton's presentation there will be open discussion concerning any area of communications the conference wish to raise.

The final portion of the conference will be a silent reading of a given article by each participant. This should lead to a discussion of the elements of the article and how to find these elements.

A resume of experiences, and conclusions about interpersonal relations will be presented at the end of the Conference. If you attend, you must stay to the end to know some of the purposes. Three questions should be answered: what to do with adult classes, what are our commitments, and how can we share ideas?

The conference will be valuable for anyone who leads any discussion or who would like to be a better participant in discussion.

SKI TIPS

#12 PARALLEL CHRISTIE

By Ace Manley
Director, Big Bromley Ski School

Parallel christie is the ultimate turn in skiing.

From the traverse position, the skier sets the edge of the downhill ski. With an up motion, the skier starts the turn by transferring the weight to the outside or uphill ski, and the inside ski is advanced.

At this moment, the skis are flat, because the edge of the downhill ski has been released, allowing the skis to slide slightly sideways. As this slide begins, the knees are pressed forward and in the direction of the turn, which increases the edge on the opposite side of the ski.

Throughout the turn, the body is angled as the outside shoulder is brought gradually back and turning power is applied.

As the turn is completed, the skier again sinks down to re-set the edges. This is sometimes called, "carving the turn." At the end of the turn, the skier rises into a new traverse position.

Two important factors in this type of parallel skiing are: (1) that there is a good unweight at the start of the turn, and (2) that the knees are pressed forward and in the direction of the turn, so that the skier is carving the parallel christie and not just sliding around.
